

VIDEO: Regarding "Revolution"

Written by Jesse Richard

Tuesday, 10 March 2009 18:31 - Last Updated Wednesday, 11 March 2009 12:20

Jesse Richard, founder of TvNewsLIES.org, comments on the current mood of the nation. He explains that many Americans feel that the nation is ripe for revolution.

Revolution against the government is illegal, but more importantly it is unnecessary. Jesse explains that the purpose of revolution is to change the type of government of a nation. For example, people living under a dictatorship may revolt in order to form a democratic government.

The people of this nation do not want that! They simply want to restore their government to a legitimate representative body that obeys laws, represents the people and is not merely a tool of the establishment. No matter what the rhetoric, this is not a desire for revolution, nor is it revolutionary. It is common sense and it is quite understandable to most civilized people.

This commentary includes a special message to law enforcement and military personnel.

Restoration is not revolution. And restoration not illegal.