As they do will all issues of import, the establishment media control public debate on the complex and important issue of gun ownership. They distract from the real issue behind the issue as they serve up for public consumption only the simple, yet politically divisive aspects of the debate.

What the public is left with is a circular argument that can not be won, because both sides have valid points. Yet the real issue related to gun control has more to do with a public that has every reason to fear an ever expanding government. And even those people who realize this tend to over look important details that impact this issue.

The purpose of this commentary is to expand the the debate on gun ownership to include the details one of the most important aspects of the issue. These details are routinely omitted from discussion by our enemies in the media and in many cases by people who see past the deception of the media.
