

The regulator's heavy-handed response to a media revolution is injurious to a free society

We are in the middle of a tremendous and welcome shift in power - from elites to individuals and communities. For the media, that means a shift from content controlled by a few to that created, adapted, or distributed by a multitude.

TVNL Comment: A key comment in this article is "content controlled by a few!" That is how media deception is conducted.

More...