

U.S. News and World Report is essentially getting out of the newsmagazine game.

The financially struggling magazine, which cut back to biweekly publication, now plans to go monthly, according to staffers briefed on the decision.

More...